

WHOLE BODY
LISTENING

Listening with your eyes, means looking at the person who is talking.

Listening with your ears means,
both ears are ready to hear.

.

Listening with your mouth means, quiet no talking, humming, or making sounds.

Listening with your hands mean, your hands are quietly at the side of the body or in the lap.

Listening with your feet means, standing still or quietly on the floor.

Listening with your body means, facing the speaker.

Listening with your brain means, thinking about what the speaker is saying.

Listening with your heart means, caring about what the speaker is saying.

Whole BODY LISTENING

You listen with your brain by thinking about what the other person is saying.

You listen with your eyes by looking at people's faces and eyes when they are talking to you.

You listen with your mouth by keeping it quiet when other people are talking and only talking about what the other person is talking about.

You listen with your hands by not distracting other people or yourself. Hands should be quiet.

You listen with your ears by hearing what other people are saying.

You listen with your feet by keeping them still and flat on the floor.

TEACHING IDEAS

for WHOLE BODY LISTENING

- Review whole body story and teach each step
- Show me whole body listening with your (name part)
- Show me unexpected whole body listening with your (name part)
- Fast Paced Rapid name part game
- Adult acts out situation and student guess which part the adult is NOT using
- Role- play expected and unexpected whole body listening