Doing my Schoolwork at Home

A Social Story to help me to focus.
I’ve started doing my schoolwork at home. I need to focus when it is time for school.
Focusing means that I pay attention to the adults and do my schoolwork. I need to listen to my teachers and adults who live with me. There are many things I can do to help me focus so that I get my schoolwork done.
I should work where my parents can see me and help me with my schoolwork. I might work in the living room or the kitchen.
When I am focused, I avoid distractions from family members and pets. I should not work on my bed or in my bedroom. Working in my room can distract me.
I should not have my phone or any game in my workspace. These can distract me, too. I can use my phone and play games when the adults tell me it is okay. They may say that I can play when I am on a break or when I’m done with school.
To help stay focused, I should have my school schedule on my desk or table.
I should keep all my tools close by to help keep me focused.

Tools I need for schooling at home are:
- A workspace in a quiet area
- A laptop
- A notepad
- A pencil
- A timer
- Headphones
Now I am ready for distant schooling at home!
